SUMMARY

The central current issue of emerging markets has been their weakness relative to developed markets since the turn of the year. We have chosen the exceptions that are performing in line with or better than the EM index with good scope for future outperformance in their underlying structures.

- ASIA DIVIDEND

iShares South Africa weekly chart:

South Africa is very powerfully set up with a complex nested H&S pattern.

Which has now completed.

The relative strength has not yet registered in the weekly chart.

iShares South Africa daily chart:

The market has broken up through the succession of highs so the market is set for a powerful next bull leg..

The short-term down-turn in the relative strength looks to have found support And a new trend of relative strength is beginning.
