There's no new news in the currencies, except perhaps the short-term failure of the Sterling to sustain itself above the support against the Euro. And too, the Yen sharp weakness against the Dollar at the end of the week. Watch to see if that can be sustained.

These powerful resistances above the market at 1.15 and above reversed the attempted bear Dollar/bull Euro market ...

All the Prior Pivotal lows of 1993, 2001, 2008 and 2016 have acted as good resistance. A massive Multiple Top has formed.

STOCKS:

We are hot for the stocks – especially the S&P the EuroStoxx and the Nikkei. They all have completed powerful bull continuation patterns, or Prior High in the long medium and short-term charts. And the long and short-term FTSE charts look pretty hot – only the medium term is stuck in a dull range. But that could change quickly.

Eurex EuroStoxx 50 monthly continuation futures chart

The long-term condition of the market is dominated by the large triangle – possibly a continuation Triangle...

If the market can hold above the upper diagonal at around 3670 at the end of November and again in December to confirm the completion – the bulls will be ecstatic.

This is encouraging: note the completion of the Continuation Head and Shoulders.

Note too the push up through the Prior High at 3703.

This is a vulnerable market already in a bear trend but suggest further selling unless the market can get beneath and stay beneath 170.92.

COMMODITIES:

Oil looks vulnerable still, despite the speed with which the market has fallen and that is because of the weekly Key reversal and the smashing of the support from Prior Highs in the day chart.

Gold is teetering at Prior Highs, looking prone to drift - the bull impetus from the completed bull falling wedge having petered out, perhaps.
